WICHITA ONLY A YEAR HENCE.
The Globe-Democrat says that notwithstanding the denials emanating from Boston it is now well understood that the Santa Fe will build to Chicago. Two trunk lines from Wichita to Chicago, and two trunk lines from Wichita to St. Louis, and two trunk lines from Wichita through the Indian Territory, and two trunk lines from Wichita west, will make a great city of Wichita, though the place was surrounded by hills and built in a swamp, yet Wichita will have just that number of trunk lines, and in just those directions, and the most of them within a year from today. The only thing incorrect in the statement is that there will be three instead of two in two of the directions. Paste this in your hat and read it again on the 1st day of October, 1887.

NO DANGER.
A paper of Democratic proclivities and patent entails out in western Kansas warns the Democratic party against the wily machinations of Jay Gould, whom it fears will attempt to buy up the unwashed in Kansas. Our mesquit friend can possess his soul in security. Jay Gould, when it comes to buying, is no fool. There has got to be a value in the thing bought with some prospects of a possibility of a first mortgage bond. Another peculiarity we have noticed about the little New Yorker, and that is a disposition to avoid purchasing anything that is for sale in the open market. The Democratic party will have to go to some other buyer. The trouble with our Democratic friends and Gould is that the latter is building railroads all over southern Kansas, and railroads and Democracy were never known to flourish in the same field.

A NEIGHBOR'S MISFORTUNE.
We are sorry to hear that the Harper Daily Sentinel's special wire is down again. The repeated failure of Isenberg's line must prove a source of great annoyance to his readers who are often left in utter ignorance of the price of pawpaws in the Kansas City market, the monthly condition of Prince Alexander's chambermaid, and the efficiency of the Wichita open air sewer system. His last special from Wichita must have smashed the dynamos of his battery. It was as follows:
WICHITA, Kan., Aug. 34.—Col. Murdock, of the Eagle, and Captain White, of the Beacon, have entered the same bible class in Sabbath-school, and have become regular baptized members of the Young Men's Christian Association. They have buried the hatchet in the sewer, agree to never, hardly ever, lie. They now go fishing in the same hole, and were found in each other's arms on a store box on Douglas avenue one dark night some time ago.

HEARD FROM.
One of the Platorialis Visits the Land of the Red-coat, in Sunny Manitoba. What He Saw, and What He Thinks.
To the Editor of the Eagle.
After spending a few days enjoying the scenery, lake breezes and genial society of our party at the beautiful lake, Independence, we bid a good-bye and took our journey northward.
Knowing the ready pen of some of our party will have given a minute description of the states we passed through, I will merely take up sufficient of you valuable space to make a general national remark. Let us view the great, unsurpassed, inimitable tracts of fertile soil; the rivers and lakes of fine fish; the forest and mineral resources, unequaled in the world, and the fine, intelligent, industrious and able-bodied men and women who are to utilize these great national resources. When we carefully examine these resources and the political economy of our country we must conclude that future, and the near future, has in store for our great American nation a grandeur and greatness never yet witnessed in this world.
We, as Americans, have a great deal to be proud of, and in building up our nation let each citizen do his share towards laying sure, solid foundation stones, and see that men who love the peace, happiness and prosperity of the people are placed in the high positions of trust. Men who will protect the moral as well as the monetary well being of our nation. Let this be the aim of each citizen of our nation, and the future will be great and glorious.
The first town we pass through on Canadian territory is Emerson situated at the southern boundary of Manitoba and directly north of St. Vincent the most northerly town of Minnesota.
Emerson does not present to the traveler a very promising future, and the general appearance of Emerson and the country north until Winnipeg is reached would convey the thought to an Eagle that the Lion in the region of Manitoba was poor picking. But when we reach Winnipeg, the capital of Manitoba, and see the bustle and activity at train time and the general business otherways, we are led to believe that Manitoba has good picking somewhere.
Manitoba can boast of as fine soil as the North American continent can boast of and particularly noted for producing the finest wheat in the world. Not only wheat but oats, barley and vegetables of first quality. Their wheat weighs as much as 67 pounds to the measured bushel and oats 48 pounds. In many parts frosts have been a serious drawback but on inquiry we find that early sowing avoids a great deal of that. A friend of mine there who has had a crop of wheat for the last eight years except one has only had one crop frozen. However, Manitoba cannot grow corn nor fruit to any degree of satisfaction.
The climate of Manitoba is much like Kansas from May to October, clear sky, warm days and cool nights and beautiful air prevail, the daylight differs very much, Manitoba has more daylight in three months than we have in four months. They can boast of 20 hours in the 24 of daylight, and I have been told that sometimes there is a reflection of day to be seen the whole 24 hours. This, according to scientists theory, must account for the quick growth at the north and production of fine quality.
Manitoba has some fine rivers and noble lakes, and am informed they abound with fish of the best quality.
Her forests are sufficient for her own demands, and her mineral resources are yet undeveloped, but late discoveries reveal gold and silver in some places in paying quantity. Iron ore is abundant, and coal beds of fair quality of coal.
Petroleum is supposed to be in large quantities at the north of the province. Some good rich indications have been seen.
Manitoba on the whole bids fair to be one of the fairest provinces of the dominion, and especially when taken into consideration she has some of the ablest, most intelligent and active men the dominion can produce at the head of her monetary institutions of all kinds, and that the farming community are of the solid Anglo-Saxon race, not cradled in the arms of wealth and luxury, but in the arms of self-dependence, and well known now to lay the foundation of the new province sure and solid. The educational interests of the province are neglected. Schools are erected among the first buildings in the community, and are free to all. The government gives good aid in current expenses. The church keeps pace with the first settlers and the influence on the communities is marked. The Sabbath is indeed recognized as Sabbath and in the country or busy city you can see that the Canadians are a Sabbath keeping people.
The moral aspect of Manitoba is also easily observed in the zealous efforts that are being put forward toward helping the onward march of temperance.
The temperance people there are doing a good work and the probabilities are very many where the liquor will be vanished from public sale as a beverage.
It is not the same in Canada as in the United States. Each state can pass a prohibitory law but in Canada a province cannot pass a general prohibitory law. That is left for the Dominion.
A province can grant permission to each city or county to pass a local option law and the Manitobans work this so effectively that there is not more than one licensed hotel to 900 population.
In some counties the liquor is entirely prohibited by local option, and by this means the temperance people hold the liquor traffic in check and bid fair to slay the monster.
The railway facilities are not as desirable as the farmers and business men would desire.
In making arrangements to build the Canadian Pacific railroad the government of the Dominion very foolishly gave the company the monopoly for twenty years and no road can be built to compete with the Canadian Pacific for ten years yet to come. In consequence the people of Manitoba feel that they have the foot of a monster on their neck who can allow them to Sam Wood attempted to steal a county seat and a county seat stole him. Sam Wood bulldozed eastern Kansas for a quarter of a century. The bulldozing will be on the other side if he fools around western Kansas.

Pratt county will hold her first annual Agricultural Fair this year at Pratt, October 14, 15, and 16. The premium list sent out by the secretary, O. L. Peak, shows a very liberal list of prizes, we think as high as those offered by any county in the state.

Marion Center opens up a very fine new hotel on the 15th. The new hostelry has been named the "Elgin" and the opening is to be celebrated with a grand banquet. The committee having the matter in charge embrace a large number of leading citizens and their wives. The invitations sent out are very fine, in gold, carmine and blue.

The Leavenworth Times dissents to the views of the Eagle touching the middle up in the Fifth congressional district. All the same we are convinced that the trouble up there was neither of Wilson or Anderson's making, directly; that it is rather due to either or both of these men, and that it came of misunderstandings, etc., which can only be effectually settled by the Republicans of that district, and that it should be so settled without any interference from outsiders.

AND MORE OF IT.
The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe company has no interest in the Colorado, Kansas and Texas project, and will not have at any time in the future. Interested parties can put absolute reliance in this statement, as it is true, every word of it.—El Dorado Republican.

And interested parties can put absolute reliance in the further statement that the men who are to build the Colorado, Kansas and Texas road are able to construct a thousand miles of double track if necessary. This road will run from Kansas City to Wichita and through the Indian Territory. At Kansas City it will be hooked on to the new short line being built from St. Louis to the latter point. At St. Louis it will be linked to the Pennsylvania interests. These are links and hitches known to but few, but are links and hitches all the same.

TO THE FRONT.
A dispatch from Paola, Kansas, to the Globe-Democrat says that on Saturday there were twenty-two and yesterday nineteen train loads of material passed through Paola over the Missouri Pacific railroad to be used in the western extensions. The Ottawa extension is completed ten miles west of Quenemo, and they are rapidly pushing the road through to Salina, and from thence to Ness City. The Denver, Memphis and Atlantic is being pushed rapidly from Cheyenne through Coffeyville on to Larned. A part of the material mentioned is to be used on this road. The Paola and Kansas City extension that connects Gould's southwest system at Paola for Kansas City is nearing completion. The grading is all done, the ties and bridge timbers are being placed, and the laying of steel will begin soon. The first shipment of steel rails was received today.

ON TO LARNED.
Hon. W. C. Edwards of Larned representative of Pawnee county, and director in the D. M. & A., who had been out to Kingman to help celebrate the completion of that road to that point, called yesterday. Larned is booming and well she may, for the D. M. & A. is to be completed to that city by December 31st, when trains will be run regularly between that city and this. The time is very short but the contractors say they will make it. Wichita will then reach the upper valley by four lines of road, viz: By the Santa Fe, by the Wichita and Colorado by the Wichita and Western and by the D. M. & A. These four roads traverse an empire of domain and all tributary to Wichita. They link to our city twenty or thirty prosperous and growing towns and a half dozen thriving cities. It is needless to add that the business men of Wichita grasp the situation and are ready to meet its demands.

Much of Kansas's products go south to Texas.
They are already sowing fall wheat near Beloit.
Kansas expended, in 1885, for public schools over $2,750,000.
Leavenworth bank are doing more now than one year ago.
Colonel Holliday, the richest citizen of Topeka, will build a $150,000 hotel.
Gove county has been organized, with Gove City as the temporary county seat.
Street cars began hobbling along in the streets of Council Grove last week.
Gospel temperance meetings, a sort of pious form of prohibition, are being held at different places.
Seventy teachers attended the Salina normal institute, of whom fifty-five were licensed to teach.
The Hibernian societies will celebrate their twentieth annual anniversary at Leavenworth in October.
There are over 6,778 school houses in Kansas and seven full regiments of teachers in active service.
It is said that no less than 117 newspapers have been established in Kansas during the last twelve months.
Ellsworth is an appreciating town. Property there, as shown by the tax lists, has increased more than $1,000,000.
Mike Sullivan killed Tom Dolan yesterday near Holton by stabbing him through the heart. Jealousy was the cause, Sullivan suspecting Dolan of too great intimacy with his wife.
Gen. Joseph W. Denver, at one time territorial governor of Kansas, was a few days ago nominated for congress by the Democrats of the Chillicothe district in Ohio.

BRINGING IT HOME.
From the Detroit Free Press.
He was an underbred man, with burning eyes and fierce gait, and he danced around the season on one leg and cursed the Chicago jury which condemned the anarchists, and danced around on the other and yelled about free speech and free press, and waltzed up and down and vowed that capitalists ought to be blown from the cannon.
"Shay" said a big bulk of a chap, who had his head on the table and was aroused by the racket, "free speech is all right, ain't she?"
"It is! Free speech or blood?"
"Shay, you're a liar! You're a thief! You're a scoundrel and swindler and robber! Show your children are fools and your wife don't know nufft pound sand!"
"Do you insult me," howled the little one.
"Oh, noshur, just my free speech, you know. Constitution gives me right of free speech, you know! Shay, you are the meanest, most contemptible looking cur I ever saw! I wouldn't be found dead on your land!"
"I'll kill him!" howled the little one as he peered his coat.
"Shay, hold on! Don't you go back on 'er Cous'ins'hus, you know! I see you've got some money. I haven't got 'er red shirt. You're one of 'em infernal capitalists, an' I'm goin' to blow you sky high!"
He rushed the little man over a beer table, and jammed his head against the wall, and when four or five men pulled him off and hustled him out doors, he turned and shook his fist, and yelled:
"Shay! what sort of a crowd are you any-how? Mini! I whoop 'er up on free speech, and try to down monopoly, you go back on me and fling me out! Rah! for 'er cons'ins'hus! Rah! for free speech! Free country for everybody—whoop!"
